The Internal Revenue Question.

There are yet many Democrats who seem inclined to take their party's declarations in regard to the internal revenue as sincere, and who have not yet thoroughly learned the lesson that while the platform promises one thing it means to perform another. They think that when the National Democratic party in convention assembled declares that internal revenue is an unjust, burdensome, and oppressive war-tax which should be abolished, that it means what it says, and that they are justified in demanding an abolition of these taxes. They believe that if their party is in dead earnest about reducing the surplus that it can best do it, as it has promised to do it, by doing away with internal revenue, in which every dollar of reduction means a dollar less of surplus, while in the case of the tariff it is always a question whether reduced rates will so increase importations as to aggregate rather than abate the surplus evil. Thus it is that while we find the Democratic papers of the Coast falsely representing the Republican party as a free-whisky party, because of the declaration in its platform: "If there shall still remain a larger revenue than is requisite for the wants of the Government, we favor the entire repeal of the internal taxes, rather than the surrender of any part of our protective system at the joint behest of the whisky trusts and the agents of foreign manufacturers." We, nevertheless, find, says the Oakland Times, the State Democratic Convention of North Carolina complacently enacting resolutions in accord with the pledges which the Democrats held out to the nation in 1884, and again bound themselves to in June of this year.

A Word to the Worker.

Free trade very naturally proceeds upon the principle of the equalization of prices of all commodities throughout the world. English and French and German goods, being produced by cheaper labor can be sold in this country at less price than the domestic goods produced by higher paid labor. And hence it is the plainest and fairest proposition that the free trader would make the wages of the American laborer equal to those of the foreign laborer. This of course must be a necessary part of the system. It must be a leveling down of the price of everything among all commercial nations. This of course might be some advantage to the rich, but ruinous to the poor, especially to the working man, for while the price of a few articles which he bought might at first be ten per cent cheaper his wages during the whole year would be cut down fifty per cent, or in other words while he might save ten or twenty dollars in his purchases under free trade he would lose two or three hundred dollars on his wages, besides many thousands would be deprived of their employment entirely, and hence be unable to buy even cheap goods, so that the equalization of prices by free trade, would of course be a blessing to foreign countries but a curse to this, and the ruin and degradation of American workingmen. Let the workingmen of America consider this question and vote accordingly.

An English Idea of a Joke.—The Democrats have carried their bill in the United States House of Representatives by the tariff majority of thirteen votes.—Monksline.

THE MARINE DISASTER.

The Pilot of the Oceanic Makes a Statement.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 24.—Captain Louis Meyer, the pilot in charge of the Oceanic when she collided with the City of Chester yesterday, has made a statement. The Oceanic arrived outside the harbor at 8 o'clock, he said, and as usual with all vessels when a fog prevails, slowed up to half speed. It was impossible to see ahead more than two ships lengths. A heavy fog was rushing through the channel. The pilot says he blew all the regular whistles, but the fog was so dense nothing could be seen. He then describes the collision.

Captain Metcalf of the Oceanic preferred to keep his statement for the British Consul. The Captain, however, took time to say a good word for his Chinese crew. "Their movements were exceedingly rapid," he said. "As the Chester sank, which occurred five or six minutes after the collision, one of her yards struck the boat in which Third Officer Bridgett and a crew of four Chinese sailors were endeavoring to save those who had jumped overboard. Officer Bridgett was carried under the vortex, and the four Chinamen only escaped by reason of their presence of mind in seizing hold of a piece of wreckage. All came to the surface and clung to the keel of the boat until they were rescued. Officer Bridgett was severely hurt, and was within an ace of being drowned."

THIRTEEN LIVES LOST.
SAN FRANCISCO, August 24.—The latest estimates of the loss of life in the steamer disaster places the number at thirteen.

The latest list of dead and missing is as follows: Edward Chambers, Robert Fulton, Adam Richmond, J. C. Hampton and wife, Mrs. C. Heney, G. W. Anderson, Mrs. Meech, Mrs. Porter, J. Green, Mrs. A. E. Prather, Josie Brewer and C. T. Davis.

TO BE INVESTIGATED.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 23.—An official inquiry into the cause of the Oceanic-Chester collision of yesterday will be made by United States Inspector Lubbock, during the fore part of next week. As the Oceanic sailed under the British flag the conduct of her officers will be investigated by British Consul Donahue. The inquiry will begin Monday.

The Coroner does not expect that any more corpses will be found for eight or nine days. Some of the people were possibly caught by the wreck and held under the water by it, and their bodies cannot of course be recovered unless the wreck is raised.

Rise in Wheat.

NEW YORK, August 24.—It is said that more wheat was sold in this market during the first hour and a half following the opening this morning than was ever sold here before during the same length of time. The cause is said to be a strong upward tendency of the foreign markets and more wet weather reported by official and private cables. December wheat went up to 101, and May up to 105 bid.

Off the Track.

SPRINGFIELD, O., August 23.—This morning a serious accident occurred on the Columbus, Springfield and Cincinnati railway, east of this city. A train consisting of eight freight, two passenger cars and two sleepers struck a broken rail and were derailed. The sleepers were thrown down the embankment and four passengers were injured.

Stewart Arrived.

WASHINGTON, August 24.—Stewart offered a resolution in the Senate calling on the Secretary of the Interior for copied reports and affidavits on which the Commissioner of the General Land Office based his letter to Burns, of the House of Representatives, on the subject of timber depredations. It went over till to-morrow, Stewart stating he would then submit a few remarks.

Thurman in Michigan.

PORT HURON, Mich., August 24.—Thurman arrived here shortly after noon yesterday, and at two o'clock addressed a large crowd at Pine Grove Park. He devoted his remarks to the tariff and addressed them particularly to laboring men.

Congressional Nominations.

CINCINNATI, August 23.—Ben Rutterworth was nominated for Congress by the Republicans of the First District, and W. J. Vance from the Fifth District.

FEARFUL DISASTER.

Eighteen Persons Killed, Seven Fatally and Thirteen Seriously Wounded.

NEENAH, Wis., August 24.—About 11:30 o'clock last night George Whitting's paper mill, a large three story building in the suburbs, was discovered in flames. The alarm brought several thousand people to the scene, who were standing about the blazing structure, when a large rotary bleacher, weighing ten tons, exploded. Eighteen persons were killed, seven fatally injured, and thirteen so seriously that they may die, and twenty others cut and bruised by the falling debris.

The explosion lifted the roof and sent it on the heads of the spectators. The walls were blown outward and masses of the brick and stone and broken timbers buried scores of people.

The immense revolving bleacher was in the heating-room adjoining the fire-room. When the roof over the heating-room fell in, the firemen turned the hose on the bleacher and instantly the explosion occurred and ten tons of boiler debris shot out of the building and across the side-track through a throng of spectators, mowing them down like grass.

POLITICAL.

People Anxious to Inform Themselves on the Tariff Question.

NEW YORK, August 24.—At the Republican National headquarters they say a singular feature of the campaign is that the people desire documents relating to the tariff sent to them. In other campaigns there was no demands for documents, and the committee had to send them out without knowing whether they were read or not. Now the reverse is the case. The pamphlets or cards that are getting popular are those entitled "Citizen, under which flag?" A picture of two flags—the American and British—is given with these lines above each: "Freemen and Protection," "Free Trade and Coercion." Then under the American flag, "America's Choice for President, Benjamin Harrison." Under the caption of what the Free Trader has done for Ireland are these questions: "Who donated a quarter of a million dollars for provisions and sent them to starving Ireland? Levi P. Morton. Who sent the munificent sum of $20 to the earthquake sufferers at Charleston? Grover Cleveland."

Sullivan Wounded.

BOSTON, August 23.—Pugilist John L. Sullivan was shot Tuesday at the Clarendon House, at Nantasket Beach, by Dan Murphy, the proprietor. Murphy, who is an expert rifle shot, requested Sullivan to hold a silver quarter between his thumb and forefinger for him to shoot at. Sullivan complied, and Murphy fired and missed the coin. The bullet tore off the flesh on both Sullivan's thumb and finger, making a bad but not serious wound.

Chauncey M. Depew.

NEW YORK, August 23.—Details of the reception to be given Chauncey M. Depew on his return from Europe begin to take shape. Several steamers will go down the bay and a parade will follow his landing. The Union League Club will discuss participating in the demonstration.

The Afghan Revolt a Failure.

LONDON, August 24.—A dispatch from India says: The Afghan rising has proved to be a fiasco. The troops turned against Isak Khan, and declared in favor of the Ameer. The Ameer's authority has been firmly established in Turkestan.

POLITICAL POINTS.

The epitaph of Free Trade Democracy will be "Died in the Wool."

It has been practically settled that Mr. Blaine will make five speeches in Michigan some time in October.

Missouri is the only State in the Union in which the Supreme Court Judges actively participate in politics.

The New Haven Register (Dem.) admits that the "chances to-day in Connecticut are against the Democrats."

Federal offices in Dakota are largely filled with ex-rebels, who are strongly opposed to Dakota's admission into the Union.

Carl Schurz is comfortably settled among his friends in Germany, and is preparing to take part in the campaign.

It is reported that the Republicans of the Second District of West Virginia will nominate Stephen B. Elkins for Congress.

The Indiana Republicans are making a thorough canvass of every precinct in the State, which will be completed September 1st.

Republicans will make a hard fight in the hot-growing districts of Texas, and may succeed in defeating a Democratic candidate for Congress.

General John S. Schultz, a jute manufacturer of Manchester, N. J., says that a large number of jute mills have shut down because of the tariff agitation. Most of the jute manufacturers are Democrats, but all oppose the Mills bill.

Thomas H. Seay, who has just been re-elected Governor of Alabama, served during the war as a private in the Confederate ranks. He is hailed as a sort of political curiosity on that account down South, where every other politician boasts an army title.

How Messengers were Defeated in Express Car at Montello.

Montello, Wis., August 24.—Aron Y. Ross, a veteran frontiersman, who has been in the service of Wells, Fargo & Co. during some of the toughest episodes of stage-coach history, has furnished to the San Francisco Examiner some of his reminiscences, and the following will be read with peculiar interest by the GAZETTE's readers:

After giving a brief sketch of his life, Mr. Ross says: The toughest time I ever had was the express-car fight at Montello, Nev., in 1883. I had carried a shotgun as express messenger on most of the stage lines in Nevada, Arizona and Idaho, but I never had as close a call as that. The train got into Montello about 1 o'clock a bright, moonlight night. The engineer stopped at the switch to allow a freight train to go by, and while the train was standing still the robbers, eight in all, appeared, covered the engineer, fireman and conductor with their revolvers and took possession of the train. The freight pulled out. The robbers entered the engine and pulled the train down the track and began their attack upon the express car.

The robbers ordered me out of the car. I refused, and during the night never spoke to them again. While they were consulting as to the mode of attack I barricaded the doors with the safe, boxes, etc., and was quickly prepared for them. They surrounded the car, and six bullets crashed through the solid sides and doors of the car. I knew that my life was at the mercy of luck or fate. I took up a position at one side of the car and returned each round of shots during all of that eventful night. I estimated that there were no less than one hundred rounds of six shots each fired through the car. At one stage of the proceeding the robbers swung my car loose from the remainder of the train and pushed it along the track about sixty yards. They would then shoot for a time, retire and consult, and then renew the attack. Finally they determined to carry word and send fire to the car, and doubtless would have done so had not this process exposed them too much to my fire.

At about 3 o'clock the passenger train from the opposite direction arrived upon the scene and the attacking party immediately boarded it, and with pistols pointed toward the engineer and conductor, ordered them to move on. They immediately did so, running to the next station, where they secured help and returned, arriving at Montello soon after daylight.

In the meantime the attack on me was kept up. During the night I was shot three times, one bullet striking me in the hand, badly damaging it; one in the thigh, a flesh wound, and one grazing my abdomen. I was, of course, pretty sore from these wounds some time after, but was glad to escape with my life. One of the robbers was so badly wounded that he died an hour afterwards, and was buried a mile or two from the station by his companions before they attempted to make good their escape. Shortly after daylight came they gave up the attempt to rob the car. They mounted their horses and left, taking their wounded companion with them.

I was taken to San Francisco to rest and recuperate, while seventeen men in all pursued the highwaymen. The express company offered a reward of $1,000 each for the capture and five of them were captured, namely: Ray, Francis Earl, Anderson and Holly, and sent to jail in Carson, Nev., for a long term. Two of them have since been pardoned by the Governor on account of extenuating circumstances. Besides the money which the capture and conviction of the robbers cost Wells, Fargo & Co., I received from them $1,000 in cash and an elegant gold watch, costing nearly $700, and from Mr. G. S. Crocker a check for $150 as a personal and private token of esteem.

Horses Tormented by Heat and Flies.

A prominent Glendale rancher this morning drove to town and hitched his team to an awning post in front of the GAZETTE office, where they remained in the broiling sun for several hours, while their master enjoyed himself in the shade. The flies soon began annoying the animals, who unsuccessfully fought the pests until both were in a frenzy. Finally, one of the animals, a gray colt, became entangled in the harness and fell to the ground, almost prostrated. Bystanders soon succeeded in replacing the horse on its feet, and the owner of the team was notified of the mishap. The farmer who owns the team is noted for being a generous, whole-souled man, a good citizen, and somewhat prominent in politics, and the leaving of his team under such a broiling sun as was experienced to-day was without doubt due to carelessness.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR No More Bald Heads.

Restores the color, gloss, and youthful freshness of the hair; stimulates a rich and luxuriant growth; thoroughly cleanses the scalp; prevents dandruff and humors; and is the most cleanly and effective preparation for the hair ever offered to the public. Rev. J. W. Davenport, Illinois Bend, Texas, writes: "After a protracted illness, with fever, my hair all came out, leaving me entirely bald. I procured a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, before I had used all its contents, I procured a thick growth of hair, nearly two inches long, covered my head." L. D. McKim, Perryville, Md., writes: "Baldness is hereditary in my family. Five years ago the hair on the top of my head was becoming weak and thin. I procured Ayer's Hair Vigor, the application of which invigorated the hair roots, and sent out a new growth of young hair. To-day my hair is as thick and vigorous as ever. I still use the Vigor occasionally to keep my scalp in a healthy condition."

AT THE CIRCUS.

General Sherman's Weakness for the Test of Wonders.

Major Bundy, of the New York Mail and Express, who was in Washington some years ago when a big circus was there, tells of an all-night experience with General Sherman.

"I knew his falling, and had a fellow weakness that way myself," said the major in relating it. "So I got a hack and drove him to the circus one night."

"He divided the attention of the audience between himself and the circus. His remarks were as naive as a child's and his expressions of delight fully as spontaneous."

"When we drove back to the city we were passing Matt. Carpenter's house, when the General spied a light in the Senator's window. He insisted that we should go in and see Carpenter. You may imagine that as Carpenter had just got a fresh case of beer on from Milwaukee we stayed with him for some time. Indeed, it was after 1 o'clock when Mrs. Carpenter gave us the hint on which we proceeded to act and went away."

"We had not gone far when the General pulled me up and said: 'Now, here is Davy Porter's house. He never goes to bed until morning. Let's go in and see him. He's sure to be up.'"

"Well, we went in and the Admiral was up as the General expected, and it was after 4 o'clock when we got away from him against his protest that we were going early. I mentally protested that it would be late if we stayed longer."

"Now if you can imagine a bigger circus night than that I should like to hear of it."

MEDICINES BAD TO TAKE.

The Old Notion that Healing Draughts Ought to Be "Nasty" Giving Place to the Opposite One.

The old-fashioned notion that "physic" ought to be "nasty," and that if it is not nasty it cannot possibly do the patient any good, seems now in a fair way to be ranked among exploded fallacies.

The Pharmaceutical Journal, an English periodical which has played a conspicuous part in dispelling this ancient delusion, tells us that intelligent physicians and successful practitioners now recognize the fact that the influence of the mind over the body is such that the whims and fastidiousness of patients in respect to nauseous and offensive medicines "cannot be consistently ignored." But there is yet another reason, as this authority reminds us.

It is well known that patients often deceive their doctor by throwing away medicines that offend the taste or are repulsive in appearance, and this even in cases where the successful action or the failure of the remedy is perhaps a matter of life or death. As a natural result, if the patient dies or derives no benefit, the doctor or the drug, or both, bear the blame.

After this no one will be surprised to learn that the past year has shown greatly increased appreciation of everything that tends not only to definite doses, but also to convenience and palatability in medicines.

ONLY A THOUSAND, SIR!

This Lady Comes Rather High.

A middle-aged lady, a newcomer, called at a real estate agency to inquire about a piece of land.

She was somewhat of an equestrienne, which the agent soon learned, and he tried to effect a sale in this direction. After the usual questions about the gentle proclivities of the animal for sale, the agent related into deep thought for a moment as if considering some political issue, and finally said in a generous breath:

"Madam, if you are injured in any way by that animal, I will pay you one—yes, I will guarantee to pay you $1,000," and then he marked the figures down in big block letters.

"Only a thousand, sir!" exclaimed the lady. "I don't consider myself a rider, nor one of the mites, but I really think I am worth more than $1,000. In war times some slaves sold for $2,000, you know. Now, considering that it is leap year, couldn't you guarantee to pay a 1-1-1-1-1 more?"

The agent has applied for a position as driver of a street car.—Portland Oregonian.

THE CHARLESTON DELICACY.

Hominy and Shrimps for Breakfast.

If there is one thing that can compensate the average Charlestonian for being robbed of his morning nap by the insatiable and conscienceless raw shrimp fiend, it is the reflection that at any rate he will have a breakfast of hominy and shrimps, and that even Vanderbilt and his $100,000 cook are in that one particular poorer than any man in Charleston. For neither Mr. Vanderbilt nor his $100,000 cook can get up a shrimp breakfast ("as sh is cooked," in Charleston) at the frozen North.

It is admitted that there are no shrimps in America at least, that can compare with the Charleston shrimp in delicacy of flavor or in tenderness of flesh. There are prawns and shrimps elsewhere, perhaps, but the little Charleston shrimp is as far ahead of them as Hyperion is asstir, and one of his principal peculiarities is the fact that he will not submit to be carried away from home.

He generally puts in an appearance about early April, and he stays with us all the summer. He never consents to be sent away from home—Charleston (S. C.) News.

Thankful for a Small Blessing.

Young Vicer, who had been for three weeks lying ill with pneumonia, asked one day to see his overcoat. It was brought out with no little wonderment by his mother.

"Hang it on the foot of the bed, won't you, mamma?" he asked.

"Yes, my boy, if you wish; but why do you want to have it on your feet?"

"Just to look at it, mamma. It's been such a long time since I've seen it."

A Child's Philosophy.

Here is an illustration of genuine benevolent philosophy on the part of an eight-year-old:

Harry's mother, having heard for some little time what seemed to be a moaning or crying in some distant part of the house, had a search made, and found in a remote, very small and perfectly dark closet, the family dog, Leo by name, shut in, with scarcely room enough to turn around.

"How did he get there? Why, Harry had shut him up, of course. Harry was summoned and questioned."

"Why did you shut Leo in that closet?"

"Oh, 'cause he'd feel so good when he got let out!"

Awkward.

The great auk is an extinct bird. Undoubtedly its great awkwardness proved fatal.—Pittsburg Bulletin.

What Has Been Done In Montana.

D. A. Clark of Montana went to the ranch in 1884 with twenty-five men, and now he has an income of $2,000 a day.

THE STARRY FIRMAMENT ON HIGH.

Sang Addison. But hadn't you, for a few years at least, rather look at the firmament from the underside.

YOU CAN DO IT
by observing the laws of health and resorting to that cheat the grave medicine WARNER'S SAFE CURE. You are out of sorts; a splenetic feeling and appetite one day, while the next day life is a burden. If you drift on in this way you are liable to become insane. Why? Because poisoned blood on the nerve centers wherein the mental faculties are located, paralyzes them and the victim becomes non-responsive.

There are thousands of people to-day in insane asylums and graves, put there by Kidney Poisoned Blood. Insanity, according to statistics, is increasing faster than any other disease. Is your eyesight failing? Your memory becoming impaired? An all-gone feeling on slight exertion upon you? If so, and you know whether this is so or not, do not neglect your case until reason totters and you are an imbecile, but to-day while you have reason, use your good sense and judgment by purchasing WARNER'S SAFE CURE and WARNER'S SAFE PILLS; medicines warranted to do as represented, and which will cure you.
